

Apparel Design

Description

If your creative talents lie with an interest in apparel design, Tulsa Tech's Apparel Design program will help you prepare for careers in the industry. Apparel Design will concentrate on competencies in the area of design through textiles, custom sewing, and alterations through the use of commercial patterns. You will be introduced to methods of clothing construction through the use of industrial and home sewing machines. Creativity is further enhanced by the study of machine embroidery and digitizing.

- Learn custom sewing techniques
- Express your creativity while establishing a foundation in color theory, textiles, fashion design, & sketching
- Apply artistic & technical skills to a variety of unique apparel projects
